

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

- A digital camera with an automatic image transmission function which includes a transmission section for transmitting
- 5 photo images and a transmission control unit connected to the transmission section. The transmission control unit judges whether a predetermined transmission allowance condition is satisfied and allows the transmission of photo images only when the predetermined transmission allowance condition is satisfied.
- 10 As one example, the predetermined transmission allowance condition includes a condition when photography is completed.